The President's Policy. The representatives of the States should be LOYAL MEN, willing to abide by and be DEVOTED TO THE UNION AND THE CONSTITU-TION OF THE STATES.

ALL responsible positions and places ought to be confined distinctly and clearly to men who are unmistakably and unquestiona-BLY LOYAL .- President's Reply to the Virginia

I hold it my duty to recommend the admission of every State to its share in public legislation when it presents itself in the persons of representatives whose LOYALTY CAN-NOT BE QUESTIONED under any existing constitutional or LEGAL TEST .- President's Veto Message.

The Constitution declares that no State shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate of the United States without its consent. Then, where do we stand? All that is needed to finish this great work of restoration is for the two Houses respectively to determine the question. Oh! but some one will say, "A traitor might come in!" The answer to that is that each House must be the judge, and if a traitor presents himself, cannot either House know that he is a traitor? And if he is a traitor, can they not kick him out of the door, and send him back, saying to the people who sent him, "You MUST SEND US A LOYAL MAN?" Is there any difficulty in that? If a traitor presents himself to either House, cannot that House say to him, "No, you cannot be admitted into this body. Go back. We will not deny your people the right of representation, but THEY MUST SEND A LOYAL REPRESENTATIVE."-President's Address to the Soldiers and Sailors.

I will put an end to the Freedmen's Bureau just as soon as the South, by proper action for the PROTECTION OF THE FREED-MEN, make it unnecessary.—President's Interview with Governor Cox.

The University.

We publish below a letter from Gov. Swain, President of the University, to B. F. Moore, Esq., in which the former characterizes in appropriate terms the conduct of some of the students in issuing a Ball ticket with Jefferson Davis, J. C. Breckinridge, Z. B. Vance, and other insurgent leaders, as Honorary Managers, As soon as this conduct was brought to the attention of Mr. Moore he wrote to Gov. Swain on the subject, expressing his condemnation of it in the most decided terms; and we are glad to find that Gov. S. concurs with Mr. Moore, as will be seen by his letter. Mr. Moore is one of the oldest Trustees, is a member of the Executive Committee, and has always taken a lively interest in the University. It was, therefore, peculiarly appropriate that he should be among the first to call the attention of President Swain and the Faculty to this very improper action on the part of the students. The Faculty promptly expressed its disapprobation of the conduct of the students; and at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Trustees, in this City, the resolutions of the Faculty were approved.

We apprehend there was something more than "a desire to attract a crowd at Gommencement, by creating the impression that great notabilities might be expected to be present." There are many notabilities, or persons of distinction, who have taken no part in the rebellion, but who have staked their lives to preserve the government; and among them we may mention President Johnson, Gen. Winfield Scott, and Hon. John M. Botts. If there be any disposition to invite such "notabilities" to Chapel Hill, that disposition has not thus far been manifested.

We have no concealments on this or any other subject. We have been and we are yet friends to the University. We were gratified when the Legislature made an appropriation to enable it to resume operations; and our only regret was that the State was not able to do any thing for common schools. But if the University is to be converted into a political or partizan machine-if its cherished notabilities are to be such persons as Jefferson Davis, J. C. Breckinridge and Zebulon B. Vance-if the influences that proceed from it are to be rather against than in favor of the government of the United States, then we say let it sink at once. The people of this State will not be taxed to support a political University, or an institution which does not inculcate respect for the government of the United States and the most thorough submission to its authority.

The truth is, "the boys" at Chapel Hill are like many, very many of the "old folks at home." Almost every influence in high places and in domestic circles in this State, is detrimental to the growth of sound, heartfelt loyalty. We are not surprised that "the boys" should catch and manifest as they have done, something of the spirit of the times. In the judgment of very many they have only acted "imprudently." That is all. But it is well to remember that they are already making a record for the future, and that a few years hence, they may have occasion to regret that they looked no higher for lights to guide their footsteps than the still unrepentant, unsubdued leaders of the Great Rebellion. If these leaders are distinguished, and therefore worthy of special honor, it is because of their attempt to strike down and destroy the best government the world ever saw. We do not include Gen. Cox (one of the Honorary Managers,) in these remarks, as we believe that he has seen his error, and has submitted in good faith to the national authority.

CHAPEL HILL, 5th May, 1866. My DEAR SIR :- You cannot have been more surprised and mortified than I was at the indiscreet proceedings of the Ball Managers in the matter to which your letter refers. I would feel it still more deeply if I supposed it were a true reflex of the sober second thought of the great body of our young men, or even of the Ball Managers themselves.

A desire to attract a crowd at Commencement, by creating the impression that great notabilities might be expected to be present, lies at the foundation of this folly.

At the first meeting of the Faculty after this transaction came to light, resolutions ex-pressing their views in decided terms were manimously adopted and communicated to the parties concerned. These resolutions, as in similar cases heretofore, will be laid before the Trustees immediately.

The course pursued from the foundation of these observances has been to permit the two | benefit of his family.

Literary Societies to select the Orator to deliver the addresses at Commen leniors to choose the Clergyman to deliver the Valedictory sermon to the class, the whole body of the students to appoint the Ball Managers and the latter to select Honorary Managers, for the purpose as expressed in the first communication ever promulgated, of giving "dignity and stability to the Ball." The first appointment was tendered in compliment to the gubernatorial office to me in the Spring of 1835. I declined it. President Caldwell died on the 28th of January preceding, and the Executive Committee had appointed Professor Anderson to deliver a Funeral Oration at Commencement, and I advised the young men then, as I would have done in the present instance, if I had been consulted, or had I suspected their designs, that the condition of things around us called for anything else than festive demonstrations. I have no mode of preventing occasional outrages of this nature than that suggested some years since, when Arch Bishop Hughes was invited to deliver the Valedictory sermon to the Senior Class-the adoption of an Ordinance requiring all nominations of this character to be submitted to the Executive Committee for confirmation.

With sincere thanks for your prompt attention to this matter, I remain,

Very sincerely and truly, Your friend and servant, B. F. Moore, Esq. D. L. SWAIN.

We have asked repeatedly who the unconditional Union men are; but the Standard has never advised us on this point. Are they those who favor Thad. Stevens' accursed schemes, and oppose the President? Or are they the few sneaks and skulks that remained among us during the war, and who can now take the infamous test oath? If the may never appoint any of them to office. If the latter, we doubt very much, whether he could find a single one who possesses the respectability of the thief who has paid the penalty of a violated law at the whipping We do not believe there is a single man in the State, of any intelligence, honesty, and respectability, who remained South during the war, that can take the test oath of the most thoroughly consistent Union men during the war that refuse to take the oath for office or the emoluments of office. Now if the Standard means those who can take the test oath, we tell him the number is serve private or selfish ends. exceedingly small, and that these few are, not only utterly incompetent, but are also unworthy of any official position of trust and honor. We know many negroes that we would prefer to see in office to such men. -Salisbury Banner.

We will tell the Banner what we mean by good. an unconditional Union man, and we trust that paper will do us the justice to copy it. We are in favor of the President's plan of restoration. We regard the President, the Congress, and the Supreme Court as the three great co-ordinate departments of the government. We are for the government .-We desire to see the Union fully restored. We want this done on the best terms that can be obtained for North-Carolina; but if we cannot get our own terms we will submit to such as may be imposed by the governnow we are for the Union on the best Senator Call, that it is not for the South to

We know that these views are exceedingly inpopular at this time, but we want no popularity if it is to be obtained only by abandoning what is just, loyal, and right.

It does not follow, because we hold these views, that we are insensible to the harsh people are subjected. We believe the colby Congress until the States are restored. loyalty," in the language of President Johnmen. We also hold that no further amendments to the Constitution should be made until the recently insurgent States are reprefollow that we should denounce and abuse the Congress as an usurping "rump concern" the minds of the people against the government. Such a course can result only in evil. We admit that the great body of the oath as it now stands, and that in some of oath is not objected to by President Johnson, and it is one of the laws of the land. As such it is entitled to the respect of every citizen. To call it infamous-to say that those citizens who can take it are sneaks, and skulks, and thieves, and meaner than negroes-to hold it up thus to the country, cannot fail still further to inflame the Southcall down on our impoverished people still further privations and sufferings. No man who is loyal at heart will speak thus of one of the laws of the United States. The result of all this will be, if continued, to paralyze the federal government in this State and to bring its authority into absolute contempt. We shudder to contemplate what would then follow. If our people are wise, and if they would escape utter destruction in the end, no matter what they may feel to be their grievances at this time, and no matter how much they may resent the action of the Congress towards the recently insurgent States, they will promptly and sternly discountenance such sentiments as are expressed by the Banner, the Fayetteville News, the Raleigh Sentinel, the Wilson North-Carolinian, and other papers of that stamp.

We also publish from the New York Herald. letters from Generals Howard and Whittlesey, explaining and defending the conduct of officers of the Bureau.

The Report made to the President is an official document. It discloses not only corruption on the part of certain officers, but cruelty towards freedmen by even ministers of the holy gospel, which is calculated to excite profound indignation. Complaint has been made that under the laws of this State freedmen are whipped, as white men are whipped, for the crime of stealing; but there is no law in North-Carolina, and there never has been, for levying heavy taxes on certain classes of free persons, or for hanging them up by the wrists for hours for refusing to work, or for "inflicting cruel or unusual punishments." But this, it seems, has been done by reverend and pious ministers of the gospel, who have been loud in their protestations of regard and affection for the "poor colored people."

We agree with Gen. Howard that much has been said to the effect that "the negroes will not work." But if it be true that they are free, they have the same right to be idle that the white man has. There is no more right to force a freedman to work than there is to force a white citizen. But it will hardly do to require a freedman to work at the former, we trust to God that Gov. Worth point of the bayonet for the benefit of salaried officers of the government, and then declare with an air of triumph that the negro has been shown to be industrious in his habits and disposed to labor.

The Freedmen's Bureau was intended to be a great public benefit. This was no doubt the object in view in establishing it. without perjuring himself. These gentlemen start on their new career under favorable auspices, with many facilities and ern mind against the government, and to advantages that would not be enjoyed by others, and we bespeak for them an extended and liberal patronage at the hands of the people of the State, fully persuaded that they will deserve all that a generous confidence may bestow.

Messrs. Orr and Guthrie will fulfill my unfinished contracts for advertising and subscription, so that no wrong will be done any one by the change; and they are authorized to collect all debts due the office for work done since the 17th of April, 1865, with the exception of a few stipulated accounts that ing gratitude. And now, readers of The Progress, it only remains for me to bid you an affectionate farewell, and to express the hope that, should I ever ascend the tripod in North-Carolina again, it may be under better auspices and a fairer political sky than that which now overhangs us. Identification of the Body--- The Particulars. The body of Preston King, late collector of the port of New York, who, it will be remembered, committed suicide in November last by jumping off a Hoboken ferry-boat into the river, was discovered at 5 o'clock on Monday morning drifting in through the gap of the Atlantic dock, Brooklyn. The remains were fully identified by several gentlemen connected with the custom-house as being those of Mr. King, and the articles found in the pockets of his clothing establishes the identity beyond a doubt. The remains will be taken to Ogdensburg, where they will be interred. The body was somewhat decomposed, but the clothing was in a remarkably good state of preservation, considering the long time that it has been in the water. A cord was found over the inner coat, embracing the shoulders and the waist, as if placed there to sustain some weighty substance. The fact that a weight had been suspended was shown by the appearance of the cording, to which hung a number of broken ends. In the pockets of the coat and pants were found a pair of gold spectacles, a gold tobacco box, a pocket knife and a pocket book, but the latter contained no locuments of any kind.
